Capital Greets Bonus Seekers With Jobs or Orders to Leave

WASHINGTON — Harry Hopkins is staging a one-man fight against the threatened bonus army—and winning.

Hopkins' chief weapon is the one he uses in feeding a part of the population of the U. S. A.—federal relief.

Although it has not permeated to the general public, a group of veterans is staging a drive to assemble a powerful bonus army in Washington almost on the day Congress convenes. To this end they have their agents in every transit bureau in the East and South. Floaters coming through the bureaus are advised to come to Washington immediately.

This is where Harry Hopkins does his stuff.

Through the transit bureau in Washington, he corals new arrivals. They are offered the choice of a job in either a CCC camp or with an FERA outfit—or a forced exit from Washington.

"Work or Run" is Harry Hopkins' motto.

And in this way the converging bonus army is scattered almost as soon as it arrives.

Tank Father

Army tanks have carried all sorts of men to all sorts of places both in peace and war, but last week it was recorded that for the first time in history, a tank conveyed a Congressman to the dentist's.

The Congressman in question is Ross Collins of Mississippi, who because of his appropriations for mechanization generally is known as the father of the army tank.

Ross was sitting at home the other day when General Samuel Hoot of the Ordnance Department, telephoned.

"Want a ride to your office," he asked.

"I'm not going to my office, I'm going to the dentist," replied Collins.

So a brand new army tank, making 55 miles an hour at top speed, carried the Congressman from Mississippi through the streets of the Capital to the waiting forceps. Ross said it was smelly and oily inside, with not very much air, but he enjoyed it.

New Deal Vs. Old

Behind the feud between Honest Hank Ickes, Public Works Administrator, and Dapper Jimmy Moffett, Federal Housing Administrator, is a story of many ramifications.

It began at the very start of the Roosevelt Administration when Jimmy Moffett first came to Washington. He had known Roosevelt when the latter was Assistant Secretary of the Navy and when Jimmy, then working for his father's Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, sold oil to the Navy.

Later, after contributing heavily to the campaign, Jimmy received appointment as an adviser on petroleum. His first acts were to urge a price-fixing agreement and to put himself forward as head of the Petroleum board.

Ickes, however, was already head of the Petroleum Board, and Jimmy, after a row with his Standard Oil chief, Walter Teagle, went back to private business.

Returning as Federal Housing Administrator, Jimmy has won the reputation of being the New Deal's gift to real estate operators.

A provision exists in his bill whereby he could go in for low-

LICENSE TAGS GO ON SALE IN STATE DEC. 1

Hammel Ready for Business; Tags Cannot Go On Until Dec. 10

OTHERS APPOINTED

Local Serial Numbers Begin Y51 and X500

Sale of license tags for 1935 will start in Circleville and throughout Ohio Saturday with George E. Hammel handling the tags for this city in his Masonic temple office.

Although tags cannot be put on automobiles until December 10, the new tags are yellow lettered on a blue background and the numbering varies from previous years. Letters precede the numbers on all tags. Circleville's serials begin at Y51 and run to Y1100 and X500 to X7950.

Other dispensers in the county include George Gardner at Ashville, Lee Luelien at Williamsport, O. M. Beckett at Commercial Point and C. W. Briggs at New Holland.

ALL HAVE SUPPLIES

All have received supplies and are ready to dispose of the licenses.

Applications for truck licenses are being received by all dispensers but are being forwarded to Columbus for approval and issuance of tags. Mr. Hammel today stressed that those who had their cars and trailers weighed last year and have not changed them need not have them weighed again.

Frank West, registrar of motor vehicles in Ohio, today estimated that $1,500,000 sets of the new yellow numbers will be sold by January 1. Prices for the tags range from $7 to $25.

This year is the first time that Ohio has used the letter system extensively. West said the new system was adopted after he was told by law enforcement officers from other states that the present rating of license tags ranging as high as seven digits was too hard for accident witnesses to remember.

The new plates run into only four figures with one letter designation or into three figures when a plate carries two letters.

NO. 1 STILL UNUSED

The governor's car will carry the regular plate with the word "governor" on it. West said the practice of reserving low numbers for state officials has been abandoned and that "we'll reserve plates for anyone if there has not already been a request for the number or letters they want."

An unusual fact, according to West, was that no one as yet had requested number 1.

BABY IS BEATEN, HUNT FATHER, 21

PIQUA, Nov. 30.—Formally charged in an affidavit with "cruel and inhuman treatment of a minor child" after he was alleged to have beaten an eleven-month-old son because the infant's crying kept him awake, Dee Herron, a 21-year-old father, was sought by authorities today.

Mrs. W. S. Ramsey, a Miami probation officer, filed the charges against the young father.

Leila Dye, a city health nurse, who uncovered the case, claimed that the baby had been beaten so severely that it bled from the nose and ears. She said the child was in a critical condition.

According to Miss Dye's story, the father, awakened by the tiny boy's cries, locked the mother in a closet and then "beat the tiny thing unmercifully." She claimed that the mother of the baby said that the husband also had beaten her on several occasions.

Herron had been without a job and his family had been on relief rolls. The father was believed distraught because of continued unemployment.

DRIVE PLANNED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—Battle lines for the fight for immediate cash payment of the bonus were expected to be more tightly drawn tomorrow as several hundred commanders and adjutants of the Ohio American Legion converge here to confer with Frank N. Belgrano, Jr., the new national commander of the war veterans, according to announcement today.

It will be Belgrano's first meeting with members of the Ohio department since his election at Miami, Florida last month.

Firemen to Again Repair Toys for Needy Children

Talmer Wise, chief of the fire department, announced Friday that members of the department will willingly repair toys for distribution for needy children of the city. The firemen have done this work for the past several years and many homes have been brightened at Christmas time.

In order for the firemen to do this work several things are necessary and everyone should co-operate:

First, the firemen need discarded toys of any kind. They will be repaired, painted and made to look like new.

Second, contributions of wire, tacks, paint, and other things are imperative so repairs can be made.

From time to time the firemen will announce what they need to carry on their work and it is hoped that persons able to do their part to make the Christmas treat possible.

HERALD ANNOUNCES SIX NEW COMIC STRIPS, NEW FEATURES

Central Press Service Starts Today With Many Additional Features.

Always striving to make its newspaper more interesting for its readers, The Herald today announces a number of changes in the publication's features taking place immediately.

Contracts have been signed with Central Press, nationally known feature syndicate, for its complete service. It replaces International Illustrated Service.

The outstanding addition will be six new comic strips providing a full page of comics every day. The only comic to be retained is "Dorothy Darnit."

The new comics are:

Etta Kett by Paul Robinson.

Big Sister by Les Forgrave.

Brick Bradford by William Ritt and Clarence Gray.

Chip Collins' Adventures by William Ritt and Jack Wilhelm.

Muggs McGinnis by Wally Bishop.

High Pressure Pete by George Swan.

Other additional features will include:

Scott's Scrapbook by R. J. Scott.

The Tutts by Crawford Young.

Old Home Town by Stanley.

A new word puzzle, a number of new short stories, "Us Girls," Sally's Sallies, and others.

New series of sports art and news pictures are also included in the new service.

The Herald regrets that the immediate change causes several features to be stopped during their continuity. It is also necessary to start several of the new comics in the midst of serials.

2 ARRESTED FOR THREATS

Man and Wife Charged With Threatening To Kidnap Two Children.

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—Charged with attempting to extort $10,000 from Daniel Sorenson, superintendent of the Ford Motor factory at Toronto, on threat of kidnapping his two children, a man and woman were held by Detroit police today.

The prisoners gave their names as George Carpenter, 34, and his wife, Bernice, 29.

Police said Carpenter is Sorenson's nephew.

The couple were arrested three days ago in a Detroit hotel, when they allegedly accepted delivery of a "dummy" package supposed to contain the $10,000.

Inspector John Hoffman of the special investigation squad, said the threatening note was sent to Sorenson a week ago. It read:

"Send $10,000 or four men will come up and get your children." It was signed "G. C."

The note carried the address of the Detroit hotel to which the money was to be sent.

M'ABEE'S CHRYSLER WRECKED IN CRASH

How Loring McAbee, this city, escaped death when his automobile catapulted off the Williamsport-pk west of Route 22 and 104 intersection Wednesday evening remained a matter for discussion today.

McAbee riding alone suffered two cuts over his right eye, was taken to Berger hospital and treated then discharged.

The automobile broke a telephone pole and was completely demolished. It was towed to the E. E. Clifton garage where it was viewed by a number of persons. The first question they would ask was "How many were killed?"

McAbee was thrown from the machine and was removed by Service Director William Justus and others who were passing the scene.

Sheriff Radcliff and Deputy Figgell investigated.

COURT DENIES YOUNG KILLER SECOND TRIAL

Edwards, 21, Must Die for Killing Sweetheart, An Expectant Mother

TO BE SENTENCED

Young Engineer Not Told of Ruling

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 30.—Robert Allan Edwards, 21-year-old mine surveyor, today was denied a new trial in the "American tragedy" slaying of his neighborhood sweetheart, Freda McKechnie, 26, for which a jury has condemned him to death.

The decision of the court was made known this morning in a formal opinion written and handed down by Judge W. A. Valentine who had presided at the trial. The jurist indicated Edwards will be called to hear the death sentence within the next few days.

The youth's attorneys, Frank McGuigan, Sr., and John A. Phillips, indicated an appeal from the court's refusal to grant a new trial will be carried to the state supreme court.

CASE PREJUDGED

Attorneys for the youth based their appeal for a new trial principally on the charges that one of the jurors, John Luff, of Edwardsville, had pre-judged the case and because Judge Valentine's action in permitting the commonwealth to introduce 172 erotic love letters Edwards wrote to Margaret Crain, 23, a music teacher, of East Aurora, N. Y., the "other girl," had created a collateral issue in the minds of the jurors.

Edwards, who was convicted of killing Freda, an expectant mother, with a blackjack as they kept a swimming date in the rain, was sentenced to death July 30th. He was not immediately notified of the court's action.

Warden William Healey of the Lawrenceville prison where Edwards is confined said he would leave that task to the youth's attorneys.

TEMPERATURE FALL IS SEEN

Alexander Says Mercury To Drop 20 Degrees Saturday; Snow Is Expected.

A warning that temperatures will fall 20 degrees—cold enough to freeze automobile radiators—in Ohio Saturday was sounded by weather observers today.

According to W. H. Alexander, government forecaster in Columbus, it will comprise the coldest weather to hit the state this season.

The coldest day to date was November 15 when the mercury dropped to 34 degrees. The temperature tomorrow, Alexander said, will be sharp.

The cold wave will follow snow expected to fall tonight.

The temperature was pleasant here today however with one-fifth of an inch of rainfall, recorded Wednesday and Thursday night.

The lowest temperature fell Thursday night was 51 degrees from a high of 58 Thanksgiving day.

Cincinnati also had a 58 degree mark Thursday while Columbus reported 55 and Cleveland 52.

GARAGE PLAN IS APPROVED

State FERA Puts Okeh on Project; County To Pay For Materials.

Ohio FERA officials have approved plans for construction of a county garage it was learned at the courthouse Friday and construction is expected to be started as soon as possible.

Labor on the building which will be located in the rear of the courthouse will be provided by FERA with the county naming a supervisor and furnishing the materials.

The garage according to the plans will house 10 machines.

The relief officials have also granted Pickaway-co $220 of instructions for making new and remodeling old clothing. No definite announcement has been made concerning this project.

RICHEYS IN WRECK

Eugene Richey and three members of his family, of Walnut-st., suffered minor injuries at 8:30 a. m. Thursday when the auto in which they were riding collided with another machine near Fayetteville, Brown-co.

Those injured besides Mr. Richey were his two sons, Harry and Bert, and daughter, Miss Virginia, clerk at the Crist department store. All suffered bruises and cuts.

The Richeys were enroute to Hamersville, near Cincinnati, to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. Richey's mother. Details of the accident could not be learned, although it was said that the collision was unavoidable.

It was first feared that Bert, younger son of Mr. Richey, suffered a concussion of the brain, although he was reported resting comfortably today. The injured were treated at the scene of the accident and later returned here by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lyle.

The Richeys were riding in the Dodge coupe belonging to Bernard Goeller, S. Court-st. Both cars were completely demolished.

It was abandoned near Mansfield after it had run out of gasoline.

APPROVAL OF CONSERVANCY IS PREDICTED

Warner, Water Conservancy Secretary, Says Action of Judges To Be Speedy.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—Quick approval of the proposed Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District is expected from the conservancy court of common pleas judges from 17 counties which will convene here Monday. David Warner, secretary of the Ohio Water Conservancy Board, said today.

"We do not expect any serious opposition to the project to arise at the hearing," Warner declared. "The approval of the project probably will come within a few days, and it will mark one of the greatest steps taken in Ohio to aid humanity."

Backed by petitions from land owners in the 17 counties to be affected by the project, which calls for the construction of 39 dams along the Scioto and Sandusky rivers, Alan N. Jordan, secretary of the conservancy association, will ask for the creation of a conservancy district.

Officials of this district would have legal authority to proceed with construction of the project.

TIDAL WAVE FEAR IN ISLES PASSES

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 30.—Hundreds of residents in the Hawaiian Islands, on the verge of panic as a result of a fearful warning that a tidal wave probably would hit the islands, returned to their valley homes today when assured the danger period had passed.

The terrifying warning swept through "The Paradise of the Pacific" late last night. The warning was issued by Dr. Jaeger of Kilauea volcano observatory.

Taking extreme precautions to safeguard the populace, Dr. Jaeger issued a bulletin that "an extremely heavy earthquake" was recorded 1,400 miles west of the Hawaiian group.

He simultaneously warned the islands that a tidal wave might result from the violent disturbance in mid-sea.

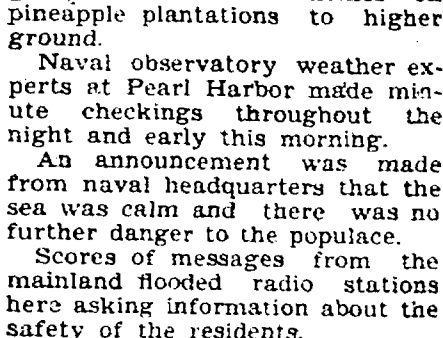

Terrified residents in the low-land regions of the Hawaiian group fled from their homes on pineapple plantations to higher ground.

Naval observatory weather experts at Pearl Harbor made minute checkings throughout the night and early this morning.

An announcement was made from naval headquarters that the sea was calm and there was no further danger to the populace.

Scores of messages from the mainland flooded radio stations here asking information about the safety of the residents.

COURT DENIES YOUNG KILLER SECOND TRIAL

Edwards, 21, Must Die for Killing Sweetheart, An Expectant Mother

TO BE SENTENCED

Young Engineer Not Told of Ruling

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 30.—Robert Allan Edwards, 21-year-old mine surveyor, today was denied a new trial in the "American tragedy" slaying of his neighborhood sweetheart, Freda McKechnie, 26, for which a jury has condemned him to death.

The decision of the court was made known this morning in a formal opinion written and handed down by Judge W. A. Valentine who had presided at the trial. The jurist indicated Edwards will be called to hear the death sentence within the next few days.

The youth's attorneys, Frank McGuigan, Sr., and John A. Phillips, indicated an appeal from the court's refusal to grant a new trial will be carried to the state supreme court.

CASE PREJUDGED

Attorneys for the youth based their appeal for a new trial principally on the charges that one of the jurors, John Luff, of Edwarsville, had pre-judged the case and because Judge Valentine's action in permitting the commonwealth to introduce 172 erotic love letters Edwards wrote to Margaret Crain, 23, a music teacher, of East Aurora, N. Y., the "other girl," had created a collateral issue in the minds of the jurors.

Edwards, who was convicted of killing Freda, an expectant mother, with a blackjack as they kept a swimming date in the rain-swept waters of Lake Harvey last July 30th was not immediately notified of the court's action.

Warden William Healey of the Luzerne-co prison where Edwards is confined said he would leave that task to the youth's attorneys.

The note carried the address of the Detroit hotel to which the money was to be sent.

The relief officials have also granted Pickaway-co $220 for instructions for making new and remodeling old clothing. No definite announcement has been made concerning this project.

RICHEYS IN WRECK

Eugene Richey and three members of his family of Walnut-st., suffered minor injuries at 8:30 a. m. Thursday when the auto in which they were riding collided with another machine near Fayetteville, Brown-co.

Those injured besides Mr. Richey were his two sons, Harry and Bert, and daughter, Miss Virginia, clerk at the Crist department store. All suffered bruises and cuts.

The Richeys were enroute to Hammersville, near Cincinnati, to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. Richey's mother. Details of the accident could not be learned, although it was said that the collision was unavoidable.

It was first feared that Bert, younger son of Mr. Richey, suffered a concussion of the brain, although he was reported resting comfortably today. The injured were treated at the scene of the accident and later returned here by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lyle.

The Richeys were riding in the Dodge coupe belonging to Bernard Goeller, S. Court-st. Both cars were completely demolished.

It was abandoned near Mansfield after it had run out of gasoline.

APPROVAL OF CONSERVANCY IS PREDICTED

Warner, Water Conservation Secretary, Says Action of Judges To Be Speedy.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30.—Quick approval of the proposed Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District is expected from the conservancy court of common pleas judges from 17 counties which will convene here Monday, David Warner, secretary of the Ohio Water Conservancy Board, said today.

"We do not expect any serious opposition to the project to arise at the hearing," Warner declared. "The approval of the project probably will come within a few days, and it will mark one of the greatest steps taken in Ohio to aid humanity."

Backed by petitions from land owners in the 17 counties to be affected by the project, which calls for the construction of 39 dams along the Scioto and Sandusky rivers, Alan N. Jordan, secretary of the conservancy association, will ask for the creation of a conservancy district.

Officials of this district would have legal authority to proceed with construction of the project.

TIDAL WAVE FEAR IN ISLES PASSES

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 30. Hundreds of residents in the Hawaiian Islands, on the verge of panic as a result of a fearful warning that a tidal wave probably would hit the islands, returned to their valley homes today when assured the danger period had passed.

The terrifying warning swept through "The Paradise of the Pacific" late last night. The warning was issued by Dr. Jaeger of Kilauea volcano observatory.

Taking extreme precautions to safeguard the populace, Dr. Jaeger issued a bulletin that "an extremely heavy earthquake" was recorded 1,400 miles west of the Hawaiian group.

He simultaneously warned the islands that a tidal wave might result from the violent disturbance in mid-sea.

Terrified residents in the low-land regions of the Hawaiian group fled from their homes on pineapple plantations to higher ground.

Naval observatory weather experts at Pearl Harbor made minute checkings throughout the night and early this morning.

An announcement was made from naval headquarters that the sea was calm and there was no further danger to the populace.

Scores of messages from the mainland flooded radio stations here asking information about the safety of the residents.

YOUNG WIDOW OF NELSON IS U. S. FUGITIVE

Mrs. Gillis, 21-year-old Mother, Named as Aide in Death of 2 Agents

TWO TAKEN IN RAID

Deny Report Hamilton, Woman Arrested

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—For the suspected part she played in the grim machine gun battle in which two department of justice agents were slain, the slim, brown-haired widow of George "Baby Face" Nelson today was hunted by federal agents as a ranking public enemy.

She is Mrs. Helen Gillis, a 21-year-old mother of 21 years.

Ever faithful to the baby-faced desperado, whose real name was Lester M. Gillis, the widow was at her mate's side in the Barrington gun battle that proved fatal not only to Nelson but to Federal Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis Tuesday.

Federal investigators in charge of the search said they were convinced that the woman who drove away from the shooting scene with the wounded Public Enemy No. 1 and a gunman companion was Mrs. Gillis.

Further, it was charged, she crouched beside the killers during the bloody gun battle, helping reload the desperadoes' guns. One investigator explained:

COWLEY SHOWED MERCY

"Sam Cowley tried to show her mercy. He hesitated to fire as he stepped from his car, lest he would wound her. He might be living today were it not for her."

Hollis was killed at the scene of the gun fight while Cowley died early Wednesday at an Elgin hospital. A few hours later the body of Nelson, killer of three federal operatives, was found wrapped in a blanket near the entrance to a Niles Center cemetery.

Nelson presumably had lived for several hours after being wounded. A crude attempt had been made to save his life by first aid treatment of eight bullet wounds.

Federal agents and police under the direction of Inspector H. H. Clegg today were pressing the search for Mrs. Gillis and the unidentified gunman companion who is believed to have been John Hamilton, the nation's latest public enemy No. 1 and the only "big shot" of the John Dillinger gang still to be accounted for.

The army of officers also were searching for Alvin Karpis and Arthur "Doc" Barker, wanted for the ransom kidnapping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul brewer, and a John Chase whom Nelson is supposed to have brought from San Francisco.

In the search for Nelson's wife several homes of her friends and

S. IS AFTER KARPIS, NAMED IN TWO DEATHS

U. S. Enemy No. 1 After Nelson Demise; Would Face Trial Under New Law.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—With "Baby Face" Nelson finally disposed, department of justice agents today were throwing their entire resources into the hunt for Alvin Karpis who was revealed as the government's public enemy number one, and Nelson's widow.

Karpis is wanted for a long list of law violations but mainly for the government's most unpardonable offense, the murder of federal agents.

He was said today to be the "unknown" man who, with Nelson and his wife, "shot it out" with the federal agents at Barrington, Ill., Wednesday.

UNDER NEW LAW

When Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Agent Herman E. Hollis, died as the result of this encounter, Karpis' name loomed large upon the list of "wanted men." Karpis, by his resistance of the justice department men, brought upon his head the first charge of "murder of federal agents in the performance of their duty" under the new law enacted by the last congress.

Heretofore any one who killed a federal officer violated only the law of the state in which the killing occurred. But now such a crime is against the statutes of the United States and Karpis has won for himself the unenviable distinction of being the first man to be "wanted" under this new law.

Helen Gillis, "Baby Face's" widow, is charged with having been present at the Barrington killings, aiding her husband, and his companion, presumably Karpis, is being hunted by the government. She will be brought to trial for her part in the killings.

Forsaking her two young children for the career of crime and bloodshed chosen by her husband had earned for her the title of the "most wanted woman" and the role of the first woman to be snared under the recently enacted federal law.

Karpis is also wanted by the government for the kidnapping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, abducted in January and held for $200,000 ransom.

SCOUTS TO ACT IN DARBY RITES

CINCINNATI, Nov. 30.—Judge Thomas H. Darby, 66, who died Wednesday night, today in death instructed that six Boy Scouts, four white boys and two negroes, be the active pallbearers at his funeral tomorrow.

In his sealed request, opened after his death, the jurist also asked that no sermon or eulogy be preached at his last rites. In accordance with the instruction only the regular church ritual will be used.

Judge Darby was a "self made" lawyer, starting his career as a messenger boy in the common pleas court when he was only 12 years old. He was a favorite at the courthouse then and because of his keen interest in the workings of the law he became known as the "Little Judge."

Former Governor Myers Y. Cooper, when he learned of Judge Darby's passing, said "The Bench has lost a great jurist and our city a man of great heart, whose place indeed will be hard to fill."

ZANESVILLE TRIAL NEARS JURY TODAY

ZANESVILLE, Nov. 30.—With a Thanksgiving Day court session, the first degree murder trial of Russell Swiger, 21-year-old alleged filling station bandit, moved swiftly toward a climax today as Miss Grace Mitchell, a Pittsburgh radio entertainer, prepared to assume the witness stand in Swiger's defense.

While the remainder of the state observed the holiday yesterday, Prosecutor Charles S. Leasure unfolded the testimony through which the state hoped to send Swiger to the electric chair for the murder of Harold Fleming, the filling station attendant.

A purported confession made by Swiger to the crime was admitted as evidence. He was alleged to have said that he committed the homicide to obtain money to go to Pittsburgh to propose to Miss Mitchell.

The latter was expected to testify that she had no intention of marrying the youth and that he was only a friend. She had promised to help him to obtain work, she said.

Swiger's defense was to be presented today when his attorneys will claim that he was not mentally normal. The youth's first trial ended without a verdict after the jury was unable to agree and the present trial was ordered held.

Ekimo Sled Teams

Ekimo sled dogs have an intense social life. The usual team consists of a female leader, chosen because more intelligent and tractable, with five or six males to do the drudgery. The team first fights it out among themselves to determine which is top dog, second dog, third dog, and so on. The top dog is entitled to squire the female and to steal for her dried codfish, seal's tippers, deer skin pants and whatever else is edible.

relatives were raided without result. Federal operatives also were combing the Fox lake resort region in Lake county where Nelson is believed to have maintained a hideout for two months before the shooting.

Two government agents remained on guard at the county morgue here in the hope that the widow might attempt to mingle with the crowds of curious for one last look at her husband's body.

Inspector Clegg expressed astonishment when informed of a widespread report that John Hamilton and Mrs. Gillis had been arrested by Police Sergeant Frank Johnson as they were about to board a bus for another city.

The pair seized were Charles Gideon, former California convict, and a woman who said she was Opal Caton of Loveland, Okla. They were held on a request from California, the state's attorney's office said.

While thousands crowded the county morgue late last July for a look at the body of the gang chieftain John Dillinger, "Baby Face" Nelson's remains proved a lesser attraction. An estimated 800 filed past the body in the last 24 hours. It was to be turned over to Nelson's mother today for the simple funeral rites.

WALNUT TWP. SCHOOL NOTES

The Seniors has adopted a plan by which each member of the class must take the responsibility of the news for a week.

Boys A. A. News

The boys' B. B. team has been practicing for two weeks and the team is taking definite shape. Two regulars from last year and four subs returned with Link Brown out with a broken arm at present expected to join the squad after Christmas. We have about twenty two boys out and a promise from the coach that the squad will not be cut for some time.

Some new men threaten to make it tough for last year's subs in clinching a place on the team. Quite a few of the new boys are Sophomores and Freshmen which looks good for the future.

The first game is at Atlanta on Dec. 7 at which time we hope to give a good account of ourselves. Win? Well—Maybe.

F. F. A.

The Walnut chapter of Future Farmers of America will hold their next regular meeting on Dec. 3 at the school building.

The chapter tries to organize their work that they will do on a basis, that will show some results. There is a Long Time Program of work namely:

1. A few acres of alfalfa on every farm.

2. Increased number of purebred livestock.

3. Encouraged farmers to use certified seed. And the annual program of work is: Have average of two projects per boy.

Leadership Activities

1. Enter teams in county and state contests.

2. Contestant in F. F. A. speaking contest.

3. Send delegates to state F. F. A. meetings.

4. Send delegates to leadership conference.

5. Study and practice parliamentary procedure of two meetings.

6. Put on high school assembly program.

7. Try to have at least one state farmer.

8. Every vocational student to be an F. F. A. member.

Community Service and Cooperative Activities

1. Test seed, soil and milk for the farmers.

2. Put on a parent and son banquet.

3. Have an F. F. A. Basket Ball team.

U. S. IS AFTER KARPIS, NAMED IN TWO DEATHS

U. S. Enemy No. 1 After Nelson Demise; Would Face Trial Under New Law.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—With "Baby Face" Nelson finally disposed, department of justice agents today were throwing their entire resources into the hunt for Alvin Karpis who was revealed as the government's public enemy number one, and Nelson's widow.

Karpis is wanted for a long list of law violations but mainly for the government's most unpardonable offense, the murder of federal agents.

He was said today to be the "unknown" man who, with Nelson and his wife, "shot it out" with the federal agents at Barton, Ill., Wednesday.

UNDER NEW LAW

When Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Agent Herman E. Hollis, died as the result of this encounter, Karpis' name loomed large upon the list of "wanted men." Karpis, by his resistance of the justice department men, brought upon his head the first charge of "murder of federal agents in the performance of their duty," under the new law enacted by the last congress.

Heretofore any one who killed a federal officer violated only the law of the state in which the killing occurred. But now such a crime is against the statutes of the United States and Karpis has won for himself the unenviable distinction of being the first man to be "wanted" under this new law.

Helen Gillis, "Baby Face" widow, is charged with having been present at the Barrington killings, aiding her husband and his companion, presumably Karpis, is being hunted by the government. She will be brought to trial for her part in the killings.

Pursuing her two young children for the career of crime and bloodshed chosen by her husband had earned for her the title of the "most wanted woman" and the role of the first woman to be answerable under the recently enacted federal law.

Karpis is also wanted by the government for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker abducted in January and held for $200,000 ransom.

SCOUTS TO ACT IN DARBY RITES

CINCINNATI, Nov. 30.—Judge Thomas H. Darby, 66, who died Wednesday night, today in court instructed that six Boy Scouts, four white boys and two negroes, be the active pallbearers at his funeral tomorrow.

In the sealed request, opened after his death, the jurist also asked that no sermon or eulogy be preached at his last rites, in accordance with the instruction only the regular church ritual will be used.

Judge Darby was a "self made" lawyer, starting his career as a messenger boy in the common pleas court when he was only 12 years old. He was a favorite at the courthouse then and because of his keen interest in the workings of the law he became known as the "Little Judge."

Former Governor Myers Y. Cooper, when he learned of Judge Darby's passing, said "The Bench has lost a great jurist and our city a man of great heart, whose place indeed will be hard to fill."

ZANESVILLE TRIAL NEARS JURY TODAY

ZANESVILLE, Nov. 30.—With a Thanksgiving Day court session, the first degree murder trial of Russell Swiger, 21-year-old alleged filling station bandit, moved swiftly toward a climax today as Miss Grace Mitchell, a Pittsburgh radio entertainer, prepared to assume the witness stand in Swiger's defense.

While the remainder of the state observed the holiday yesterday, Prosecutor Charles S. Leasure unfolded the testimony through which the state hoped to send Swiger to the electric chair for the murder of Harold Fleming, the filling station attendant.

A purported confession made by Swiger to the crime was admitted as evidence. He was alleged to have said that he committed the holdup to obtain money to go to Pittsburgh to propose to Miss Mitchell.

The latter was expected to testify that she had no intention of marrying the youth and that he was only a friend. She had promised to help him to obtain work, she said.

Swiger's defense was to be presented today when his attorneys will claim that he was not mentally normal. The youth's first trial ended without a verdict after the jury was unable to agree and the present trial was ordered held.

Eskimo Sled Teams

Eskimo sled dogs have an intense social life. The usual team consists of a female leader, chosen because more intelligent and tractable, with five or six males to do the drudgery. The team first fights it out among themselves to determine which is top dog, second dog, third dog, and so on. The top dog is entitled to squire the female and to steal for her dried codfish, seal's tippers, deerskin pants and whatever else is edible.

YOUNG WIDOW

relatives were raided without result. Federal operatives also were combing the Fox lake resort region in Lake county where Nelson is believed to have maintained a hideout for two months before the shooting.

Two government agents remained on guard at the country manse here in the hope that the widow might attempt to mingle with the crowds of curious for one last look at her husband's body.

Inspector Clegg expressed astonishment when informed of a widespread report that John Hamilton and Mrs. Gillis had been arrested by Police Sergeant Frank Johnson as they were about to board a bus for another city.

The pair seized were Charles Gideon, former California convict, and a woman who said she was Opal Catron of Loveland, Okla. They were held on a request from California, the state's attorney's office said.

While thousands crowded the county morgue late last July for a look at the body of the gang chieftain John Dillinger, "Baby Face" Nelson's remains proved a lesser attraction. An estimated 500 filed past the body in the last 24 hours. It was to be turned over to Nelson's mother today for the simple funeral rites.

Pounds of firm healthy flesh instead of bare scraggy bones! New vigor, vim and energy instead of tired listlessness! Steady, quiet nerves! That is what thousands of people are getting through scientists' latest discovery—the Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil concentrated in little sugar coated tablets without any of its horrid, fishy taste or smell. McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and they simply work wonders. A little boy of 3, seriously sick, got well and gained 10½ lbs. in just one month. A girl of thirteen after the same disease, gained 3 lbs. the first week and 2 lbs. each week after. A young mother who could not eat or sleep after baby came got all her health back and gained 10 lbs. in less than a month.

You simply must try McCoy's at once. Remember if you don't gain at least 3 lbs. of firm healthy flesh in a month get your money back. ## WALNUT-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

The Seniors has adopted a plan by which each member of the class must take the responsibility of the news for a week.

Boys A. A. News

The boys' B. E. team has been practicing for two weeks and the team is taking definite shape. Two regulars from last year and four subs returned with Link Brown out with a broken arm at present expected to join the squad after Christmas. We have about twenty two boys out and a promise from the coach that the squad will not be cut for some time.

Some new men threaten to make it tough for last years subs in cinching a place on the team.

Quite a few of the new boys are Sophomores and Freshmen which looks good for the future.

The first game is at Atlanta on Dec. 7 at which time we hope to give a good account of ourselves. Win? Well—Maybe.

F. F. A.

The Walnut chapter of Future Farmers of America will hold their next regular meeting on Dec. 3 at the school building.

The chapter tries to organize their work that they will do on a basis, that will show some results. There is a Long Time Program of work namely:

1. A few acres of alfalfa on every farm.
2. Increased number of purebred livestock.
3. Encouraged farmers to use certified seed. And the annual program of work is: Have average of two projects per boy.

3. Elect honorary and associate members.
4. Do all things on time with definite plan for every meeting.

Thursday and Friday of this week school will be dismissed for a Thanksgiving recess.

Report on Penny Fair

The Penny Fair proved to be a great success. $33.31 was taken in, of which $1.24 was the expenses, then the net profit was $32.07. Due to the fact that all the prizes were donated the expenses were small. The peanuts which were sold had been raised and roasted by Bobby Hoover, of the seventh grade. The money is to be used in buying books.

Indians "Charmed" Cutworm

Activities of the cutworm are not new in this country. Long before white men arrived in America the Indian squaw upon visiting her garden in the morning would find many of the tender plants lopped off by the invader. The squaw, however, didn't go to the trouble of mixing up dangerous poisons—she had an easier method. Waiting until a moonless night she would go to the garden and circle it, dragging the clothes she wore during the day. This procedure was supposed to cast a "spell" over the garden and make entry by the worm impossible.

Large Number of Out-of-town Guests Here for Thanksgiving

Arriving with Thanksgiving Day were a number of out-of-town guests who came to visit friends and enjoy the usual turkey dinners at family affairs. Most of the Thanksgiving Day events this year included family groups among which were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Plum, N. Court-st., were hosts at a dinner at the American Hotel Coffee shop. Covers were laid for Mrs. Wenner Funk of Cleveland, Miss Katherine Eaton of Columbus, Glenn Eaton of Fostoria, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Walker and daughter Mary Katherine of Chillicothe, and Mrs. Charles Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stout, N. Court-st., entertained at their home Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chaney and daughter Bonny Jean and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gullum of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stout, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clendmen and son Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Stout, Mrs. P. H. Holloway and Miss Jean Moffitt.

Miss Ethel Kirchofer had as her guests her parents Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kirchofer and brother Clair and Miss Florence Tschantz of Wooster.

Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Mitchell of Niles and their daughter Miss Ellen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palm and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Leist. The dinner yesterday was enjoyed at Mr. and Mrs. Hummel's cottage in Pickaway-twp.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Rader of Jackson-twp included Mr. and Mrs. James Summers, Mrs. Robert Edge and Mrs. David Stonerock of Washington C. H. Mr. and Joan Carolyn and son David, Leland Dunkle and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer and daughter Peggy Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stout, N. Court-st., entertained at their home Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chaney and daughter Bonny Jean and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gullum of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stout, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clendmen and son Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Stout, Mrs. P. H. Holloway and Miss Jean Moffitt.

Miss Ethel Kirchofer had as her guests her parents Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kirchofer and brother Clair and Miss Florence Tschantz of Wooster.

Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Mitchell of Niles and their daughter Miss Mary Mitchell were guests at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Emil S. Toensmeier of E. Mound-st. Miss Mitchell is an accomplished musician and was for years a student of Mrs. Toensmeier.

A family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray P. Reid, W. Corwin-st., was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Gessley, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McManamy and the hosts and their daughter Dorothy.

Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Austin entertained at dinner Dr. Austin's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Austin and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ross of Ashland, Ky.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Bockart, E. Mound-st., included Mrs. Froude Zeimer and sons Addison and Carl and Mrs. W. H. Bockart and daughter Katharine.

Mrs. Irvin Boggs was hostess at a dinner. Covers were laid for Mrs. Margaret Leist and Misses Mary and Caroline Leist of Columbus, Miss Mollie Sammon, Miss Margaret Boggs of Cleveland and the hostess, Miss Sammon, Miss Boggs and Mrs. Leist remained for a week-end visit with Mrs. Boggs.

MISS JAEGER, MR. GROOM MARRY ON THANKSGIVING

At an informal but impressive ceremony early Thanksgiving morning Miss Virginia Jaeger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Jaeger of Columbus became the bride of Mr. Frank Groom of Columbus son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Groom, S. Washington-st., this city.

Rev. Fr. Colburn read the nuptials at St. Catherine's church in Columbus at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends.

Miss Thelma Seidensticker and Mr. John W. Jaeger brother of the bride were attendants.

The bride wore a brown tailored suit trimmed with a brown squirrel collar to which was pinned a corsage of yellow roses and gardenias.

Miss Seidensticker was in a green suit trimmed in beaver. Her flowers were a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a small and informal breakfast at the Deshler Wallick hotel.

When Mr. and Mrs. Groom return from a wedding trip they will reside at 104 Brunson-ave, Columbus.

Mrs. Groom graduated from St. Joseph's academy in Columbus and also Trinity college at Washington, D. C. Mr. Groom is a graduate of Ohio State university and is now associated with the Fashion Co. in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Groom and sons George and Lawrence were among the guests at the wedding and breakfast.

Mrs. Mina Shope and Mrs. Charles Miller and children, Robert, Mary Ann and Donald of Ironton returned Friday to their home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mack, N. Court-st. Mr. and Mrs. Mack and guests spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. John Gill of Columbus.

Wife Preservers

After all the meat has been taken from the turkey and eaten, put all the bones into a large saucepan, add one onion and a stalk or two of celery, cover all with cold water, let come to a boil, skim and simmer gently for three hours. Strain and set aside to cool. Vegetables, pepper and salt will make it into delicious soup.

Child's Two Mile Run Was in Vain

Home Lost After Thousands of Feet of Hose Laid

Just the other day six-year-old Nancy Schroeder, of near Baltimore, Md., ran almost two miles to turn in a fire alarm after her mother discovered a fire in the Schroeder home.

Firemen stretched thousands of feet of hose through woodland and across gullies to reach the three-story frame dwelling located in the suburbs of Baltimore, but only embers remained when they arrived.

Sally Anne, here, may look demure but we think she's just waiting her chance to try out the romping possibilities of her new bloomer dress. She, like, it already because it's so easy to get into, buttoning up the front with buttons big enough for a little girl to handle easily. And she likes the way it feels. She doesn't know why—but it's because the frock is cut to fall free and full from its cunning half-yokes—and the bloomers are plenty roomy. The long sleeves keep little daughter snug in the winter time, but short sleeves also are indicated in the pattern. Nice in challis, gingham, broadcloth, etc.

Pattern 9204 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 6 requires 2 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

CHEERFULNESS RISES

THE rapprochement between government and business and the market signs of improvement in the business outlook which have accompanied it constitute altogether the most encouraging development since the general collapse which started in 1929.

It would be somewhat less than discreet to predict that the nation is on the verge of a business boom. Many such predictions have been made in late years, only to fail of fulfillment and to produce deeper despair. Nevertheless, there is a definite spirit of optimism in the air and conditions are undeniably better than they were a year ago. Here are a few of the bright signs:

Last week was the busiest week on the stock exchange since last July.
Wheat once more has risen above the dollar mark.
There is continuing improvement in retail trade.
An 11 per cent increase in postal receipts has been reported for October as compared with the same month in 1933. In addition, the postoffice department has reported its first surplus since 1918.
Farmers' cash income is up $108,000,000 over last year.
Payrolls are four per cent higher for October than in the comparative period of 1933.

Department of commerce officials predict that Christmas buying will increase retail sales for this year to $30,000,000,000, approximately $5,000,000,000 higher than last year.

With these conditions prevailing, the stage seems set for consistent progress toward the elusive objective of recovery and it is reasonable to assume that the effects of this advancement will shortly become visible in the form of diminishing unemployment and relief funds.

A MASTER CRIME IS "BROKEN"

ON a day in August, the perfect crime, a marvel of daring, precision and unflinching efficiency, was committed in Brooklyn. From seven to 12 bandits drove up to an ice plant, deployed to strategic positions, covered passerby and employees with machine guns and revolvers, scooped up money bags containing $427,000 from an armored truck, jumped back into automobiles at a given signal, dashed through a circuitous route to the waterfront, 13 blocks away, and completed their escape in two motor speedboats.

Police announced to record any other crime of such proportions so perfectly planned and executed. The men disappeared as if into thin air. There were no clues and nothing to suggest the identity of any of the gangsters. After several days of futile effort, nothing more was heard of the crime or the criminals and the public assumption was that the robbery had simply been added to the list of unsolved mysteries.

Apparently, this was not the case. New York police have made one arrest and have announced that the case has been "broken" and that the roundup of the bandits will be a matter of only a few days. It goes without saying that the solution of such a crime, planned by criminals of more than ordinary cunning and daring, involved police work of a high order. The whole story, when it is told, should make a thrilling chapter in the history of the New York police department.

Bad luck comes all in a bunch, which is also true of laziness and dumbness.

Moonshiners are active in Virginia. Prohibition didn't prohibit; perhaps repeal doesn't repeal.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXI

"But if some one discovered something that always made a woman more beautiful, wouldn't it hold on as it started?"

"There's never been anything like that. And thousands of people are working on beauty formulas all the time. You're talking about a common dream, Caroline." She had asked him to call her by her first name. Malcolm loved to say it, thought it was the most beautiful name in the world.

"I suppose so," she sighed, "but why shouldn't you or I be a great discoverer?"

"We might, if we were inspired," "Or had the proper incentive," Caroline appended.

"I'm afraid it's out of my line," Malcolm said sadly.

Caroline laughed, but there was a new note underlying the sound. "When I've got it," she said, "you can put it over."

"Fine," he exclaimed, "and now that we're on the road to riches let's get back to work."

Caroline found the afternoon's work less monotonous than during the morning. Her mind was scarcely at all on the things her hands were doing. There was Howard to think about. She tried not to think of him, tried resolutely to put him out of her mind and concentrate on the exciting idea that had come to her, an idea born of her determination not to stay where Fate, with the help of the Dunsworths, had placed her. The contrast of Howard's position with her own as she stood watching her employer's son drive up in swaggering style to an entrance that she was no longer permitted to use had dulled her sense of sociological superiority and left her with a very human feeling of resentment.

It was truly incentive enough to arouse every atom of Rutledge stubbornness in her character. People were either laughing at her or pitying her, she supposed. She had been above caring much about that, but Howard's nonchalant attitude made it all a very bitterly real thought to her now. If Howard had stood by—nothing else would have mattered half so much. His complete indifference was too much. And how much sweeter it would be to have the last laugh if she earned it herself.

From that day on she applied herself with the drive of a consuming desire to reach the goal she had set for herself. At work in the factory she could do nothing but think, but her thoughts were not of her new ideas, new possibilities came to her then. At night, in the class room laboratory and at home, she worked them out in tests and experiments.

Her mother complained that she was wasting herself, taking her education to excess, but Caroline never stopped long enough to find out if she was tired.

She, in turn, urged her mother to think of herself, to find some interest in life. She suggested plans for music, for dancing, but Caroline never stopped long enough to find out if she was tired.

Caroline made other suggestions, but for one reason or another all were rejected. She was so sure she had decorated the house so entirely before taking up her studies at the U. Had she left the house in its original state, she told herself, her mother might have been driven to undertake the work herself, with this, giving as a reason his wife's delicate health. The truth was that he had no money to buy, or even to rent, a piano.

Caroline made other suggestions, but for one reason or another all were rejected. She was so sure she had decorated the house so entirely before taking up her studies at the U. Had she left the house in its original state, she told herself, her mother might have been driven to undertake the work herself, with this, giving as a reason his wife's delicate health. The truth was that he had no money to buy, or even to rent, a piano.

It had been a mistake, she decided, to assume all the burden of beautifying their home. It had paralyzed her parents' initiative in the matter. Perhaps it was also a mistake to continue her general supervision of the household. Planning the week's menus and going to market on Saturday afternoons, doing the hundred and one things on Sunday that Mrs. Wade had not attended to.

She gave it up, and on the first Saturday that Alva did the market, the evening was spent in nursing her back from the verge of a nervous collapse. And on Sunday they roasted a chicken, only to discover that it was a fowl intended for boiling, which roasting made too tough for eating.

But the following Saturday, after having eaten chicken hash most of the week, Caroline was still firm. She went along, however, and instructed Alva in the difference between broilers, fryers, roasting chickens and those to be used for fricassee. Alva had always known there was a difference but she never inquired into it until the dish was set before her on the table. That had been one of the reasons why her cooks never left her except when compelled by circumstances beyond their control.

Caroline's resolution was shaken a trifle when they came to the vegetables. "Can't we just order them from a clerk?" her mother appealed as Caroline handed her a bunch of carrots.

Alva tried, but she wasn't very successful. Her heart wasn't in it.

Caroline suspected that she had no faith in the magic formula that was to restore her fortunes. But the girl worked on, not daring to stop, lest the crumbling of all her hopes should plunge her into despair.

Mrs. Wade did her work well and kept the house clean, but somehow Alva was not equal to the task of keeping it tidy. Papers, magazines, books, lay about where they were put down. Tall, empty glasses were left by Philip anywhere, making rings on the table tops. Alva stayed up, the curtains were not pulled, the rooms were not cooled, and the days were growing hotter. The supplies of the house were never properly stocked; there was always something that had been forgotten.

Caroline observed after a while that her mother was showing signs of neglect about her person. Each Sunday morning until Alva had agreed to do it herself Caroline had given her a shampoo and a finger wave. The glorious auburn hair now looked dark and stringy. The eyebrows were not so finely shaped and the delicate white skin had begun to take on a dull tinge.

To see her lovely mother fading made Caroline wretched. "You must exercise," she scolded, but having no time to see that Alva did it things went on as they were. Alva continued to seek seclusion in her room, or on the screened porch where she repulsed the efforts of her neighbors to make friendly overtures. More and more frequently she spent the entire day and evening in lounging pajamas, reading, brooding.

"But if someone discovered something that always made a woman more beautiful, wouldn't it hold on as it started?"

"We'll save time by picking them out ourselves," Caroline told her, "and we'll have a better choice. This isn't a first-class store, you know, mother, but things are cheaper here."

"Is it necessary to economize in such a small way?" "I'm afraid it is, and you'd better remove your gloves. You should wear washable ones, to market."

The sight of her mother's lovely hands, ungloved and filled with none too fresh vegetables, was a shock to Caroline. For a moment she had believed, against the vicissitudes of fate, symbolized by those beet and carrots.

Her own hands—she glanced at them—more or less sacrificed to labor! The hands of the workers at the factory! Must all loveliness be destroyed? Wasn't there a need for delicate, useless things?

The moment of wavering passed. They were not living in a world of beauty; that was gone. Utility was more important to them now. Deliberately in defiance of weakness, she piled a bunch of onions on the beets and carrots.

That night, she did not attend classes on Saturday, she told her mother for the first time of her intention. "And so I cannot give you any time to housework," she added quietly. "You must take over the reins, mother. It will be hard for you at first I know, but you will find a satisfaction in it, I'm sure. Father ought to be able to help you in many ways."

As Caroline said this she looked away from Alva's unhappy countenance, but there was a thought in the minds of both that neither had mentioned to the other since coming to South Town, a thought Caroline did not want to have her mother see in her eyes. But it seemed to Alva that it was time to speak of it. "I think you know," she said slowly, "that we can count on your father for very little. He's drinking too much." Caroline said miserably, "I know. But he was very generous and kind to us for a long time. We mustn't forget that. Perhaps it's a right that our turn has come to do things for him." "It may be," Alva admitted, "but it was easy for him. We're helpless." "No, we're not," Caroline contradicted her. "If you will relieve me of looking after things here in the house I can get in a lot of good work on my formulas during the week ends." Alva tried, but she wasn't very successful. Her heart wasn't in it.

"But if someone discovered something that always made a woman more beautiful, wouldn't it hold on as it started?"

"We'll save time by picking them out ourselves," Caroline told her, "and we'll have a better choice. This isn't a first-class store, you know, mother, but things are cheaper here."

AT THE CLIFTONA

When Constance Bennett began work at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as the star of "Outcast Lady," which plays at the Cliftona Theatre tonight and Saturday, she was, in a way, "going home."

For it was at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, almost nine years ago, that she, and another young actress named Joan Crawford were featured in a picturization of a stage hit, "Sally, Irene and Mary."

It was this picture which started them on the road to stardom—a goal each of them attained.

Afterward Miss Bennett made another picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer—"The Easiest Way," adaptation of another stage success.

"Outcast Lady" is her third picture for the organization which gave her the opportunity to become a great star.

Alan Hale, former star of the silent days, is staging one of the most sensational "come-backs" in screen history, advised from Hollywood. He was seen in a bit some months ago and then was given a bigger opportunity in "Little Man, What Now?" in which he dominated many of the scenes in which he appeared. His third vehicle which will re-establish him even more firmly is "There's Always Tomorrow" which features Frank Morgan and Benjie Barnes in her first American film with Lois Wilson. "There's Always Tomorrow" will be shown for the first time at the Grand Theatre starting Friday.

CHEERFULNESS RISES

THE rapprochement between government and business and the market signs of improvement in the business outlook which have accompanied it constitute altogether the most encouraging development since the general collapse which started in 1929.

It would be somewhat less than discreet to predict that the nation is on the verge of a business boom. Many such predictions have been made in late years, only to fail of fulfillment and to produce deeper despair. Nevertheless, there is a definite spirit of optimism in the air and conditions are undeniably better than they were a year ago. Here are a few of the bright signs:

Last week was the busiest week on the stock exchange since last July.

Wheat once more has risen above the dollar mark.

There is continuing improvement in retail trade.

An 11 per cent increase in postal receipts has been reported for October as compared with the same month in 1933. In addition, the postoffice department has reported its first surplus since 1918.

Farmers' cash income is up $108,000,000 over last year. Payrolls are four per cent higher for October than in the comparative period of 1933.

Department of commerce officials predict that Christmas buying will increase retail sales for this year to $80,000,000,000, approximately $5,000,000,000 higher than last year.

With these conditions prevailing, the stage seems set for consistent progress toward the elusive objective of recovery and it is reasonable to assume that the effects of this advancement will shortly become visible in the form of diminishing unemployment and relief lists.

A MASTER CRIME IS "BROKEN"

ON a day in August, the perfect crime, a marvel of daring, precision and unflinching efficiency, was committed in Brooklyn. From seven to 12 bandits drove up to an ice plant, deployed to strategic positions, covered passersby and employees with machine guns and revolvers, scooped up money bags containing $427,000 from an armored truck, jumped back into automobiles at a given signal, dashed through a circuitous route to the waterfront, 19 blocks away, and completed their escape in two motor speedboats.

Police annals do not record any other crime of such proportions so perfectly planned and executed. The men disappeared as if into thin air. There were no clues and nothing to suggest the identity of any of the gangsters. After several days of futile effort, nothing more was heard of the crime or the criminals and the public assumption was that the robbery had simply been added to the list of unsolved mysteries.

Apparently, this was not the case. New York police have made one arrest and have announced that the case has been "broken" and that the roundup of the bandits will be a matter of only a few days. It goes without saying that the solution of such a crime, planned by criminals of more than ordinary cunning and daring, involved police work of a high order. The whole story, when it is told, should make a thrilling chapter in the history of the New York police department.

Bad luck comes all in a bunch, which is also true of laziness and dumbness.

Moonshiners are active in Virginia. Prohibition didn't prohibit; perhaps repeal doesn't repeal.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXI

"But if someone discovered something that always made a woman more beautiful, wouldn't it hold on as it started?"

"There's never been anything like that. And thousands of people are working on beauty formulas all the time. You're talking about a common dream, Caroline." She had asked him to call her by her first name. Malcolm loved to say it. He thought it was the most beautiful name in the world.

"I suppose so," she sighed, "but why shouldn't you or I be a great discoverer?"

"We might, if we were inspired." "Or had the proper incentive," Caroline appended.

"I'm afraid it's out of my line," Malcolm said sadly.

Caroline laughed, but there was a new note underlying the sound. "When I've got it," she said, "you can put it over."

"Fine," he exclaimed, "and now that we're on the road to riches let's get back to work."

Caroline found the afternoon's work less monotonous than during the morning. Her mind was scarcely at all on the things her hands were doing. There was Howard to think about. She tried not to think of him, tried resolutely to put him out of her mind and concentrate on the exciting idea that had come to her, an idea born of her determination not to stay where Fate, with the help of the Dunsworths, had placed her. The contrast of Howard's position with her own as she had stood watching her employer's son drive up in swarming style to an entrance that she was no longer permitted to use had dulled her sense of sociological superiority and left her with a very human feeling of resentment.

It was truly incentive enough to arouse every atom of Rutledge stubbornness in her character. People were either laughing at her or pitying her, she supposed. She had been above caring much about that, but Howard's nonchalant attitude made it all a very bitterly real thought to her now. If Howard had stood by—nothing else would have mattered half so much. His complete indifference was too much. And how much easier it would be to have the last laugh if she earned it herself!

From that day on she applied herself with the drive of a consuming desire to reach the goal she had set for herself. At work in the factory, she could do nothing but think, but her thoughts obsessed her; new ideas, new possibilities came to her. At night, in the class room laboratory and at home, she worked them out in tests and experiments.

Her mother complained that she was wasting herself, taxing her endurance, to excess, but Caroline never stopped long enough to find out if she was.

She, in turn, urged her mother to think of herself, to find some interest in life. She suggested pupils for music. It was Philip who vetoed this, giving as a reason his wife's delicate health. The truth was that he had no money to buy, or even to rent, a piano.

Caroline made other suggestions, but for one reason or another all were rejected. She was sorry she had decorated the house so entirely before taking up her studies at the U. Had she left the house in its original state, she told herself, her mother might have been driven to undertake the work herself, with Philip wielding the paint brush.

It had been a mistake, she decided, to assume all the burden of beautifying their home. It had paralyzed her parents' initiative in the matter. Perhaps it was also a mistake to continue her general supervision of the household. Planning the week's menus and going to market on Saturday afternoons, doing the hundred and one things on Sunday that Mrs. Wade had not attended to.

She gave it up, and on the first Saturday that Alva came to the market, she gave up the idea of nursing her back from the verge of a nervous collapse. And on Sunday they roasted a chicken, only to discover that it was a fowl intended for boiling, which roasting made too tough for eating.

But the following Saturday, after having eaten chicken hash most of the week, Caroline was still firm. She went along, however, and instructed Alva in the difference between broilers, fryers, roasting chickens and those to be used for fricassee. Alva had always known there was a difference but she never inquired into it until the dish was set before her on the table. That had been one of the reasons why her cooks never left her except when compelled by circumstances beyond their control.

Caroline's resolution was shaken a trifle when they came to the vegetables. "Can't we just order them from a clerk?" her mother appealed as Caroline handed her a bunch of carrots.

"But if someone discovered something that always made a woman more beautiful, wouldn't it hold on as it started?"

"We'll save time by picking them out ourselves," Caroline told her, "and we'll have a better choice. This isn't a first-class store, you know, mother, but things are cheaper here."

"Is it necessary to economize in such a small way, and you'd better remove your gloves. You should wear washable ones to market."

The sight of her mother's lovely hands, ungloved and filled with none too fresh vegetables, was a shock to Caroline. For a moment she rebelled against the violation of her beauty symbolized by these exquisite, tapering fingers among the beets and carrots.

Her own hands—she glanced at them—more or less sacrificed to labor! The hands of the workers at the factory! Must all loveliness be destroyed? Wasn't there a need for delicate, useless things?

The moment of wavering passed. They were not living in a world of beauty; that was gone. Utility was more important to them now. Deliberately in defiance of weakness, she piled a bunch of onions on the beets and carrots.

That night, she did not attend classes on Saturday—she told her mother for the first time of her future hopes. "And so I cannot give my time to housework," she added quietly. "You must take over the reins, mother. It will be hard for you at first I know, but you will find a satisfaction in it, I'm sure. Father ought to be able to help you in many ways."

As Caroline said this she looked away from Alva's unhappy countenance, but there was a thought in the minds of both that neither had mentioned to the other since coming to South Town. A thought Caroline did not want to have her mother see in her eyes. But it seemed to Alva that it was time to speak of it. "I think you know," she said slowly, "that we can count on your father for very little. He's drinking—too much."

"Yes," Caroline said miserably, "I know. But he was very generous and kind to us for a long time. We mustn't forget that. Perhaps it's right that our turn has come to do things for him."

"It may be," Alva admitted, "but it was easy for him. We're helpless."

"No, we're not," Caroline contradicted her. "If you will relieve me of looking after things here in the house I can get in a lot of good work on my formulas during the week ends."

Alva tried, but she wasn't very successful. Her heart wasn't in it.

SCHOOL DAYS THE LITTLE BROWN SCHOOL HOUSE

1. What is the meaning of Advent when we celebrate Advent Sunday?

Answer: Advent is a preparation for Christmas as Lent is a preparation for Easter; it consists of the four weeks preceding.

2. Where is the Sahara Desert?

Answer: In northern Africa.

3. In which sex does color blindness greatly predominate?

Answer: The male sex.

Britain's Towns, Cities

Broadly speaking, a town in Great Britain or Ireland is not called a city unless there is a cathedral in it; however, occasionally a place in which there is no cathedral is made a city by a royal order—for example, Plymouth, England, in which there is no cathedral, was made a city by order of the king.

Science Isolates Germ Responsible for Mumps

Discovery of the "Virus" May Lead to Vaccine Which Will Eradicate This Affliction

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former-Commissioner of Health,
New York City

FROM TIME TO time in the continuous study of disease and methods of treatment and cure, new germs are discovered. Now comes the news that the "virus" or germ responsible for mumps has been found. This is indeed good news for the thousands of youngsters who are liable to this disease.

This discovery will probably be followed by the perfection of a vaccine which will prevent mumps. Future generations may never know the discomforts of this affliction. It is equally welcome news for adults, for though mumps usually attacks children, adults are not immune to it. The disease is more severe in grown-ups and often leads to serious complications.

Mumps, or "parotitis," as it is medically termed, is an inflammation of the parotid gland. This gland is located in the tissues of the cheek just below the lobe of the ear. It is part of the salivary gland system and secretes a fluid which aids in the digestion of food.

Symptoms of Mumps

When the gland becomes inflamed or infected it rapidly increases in size. The swelling may be so marked as to involve the entire side of the face and distort the appearance. Sometimes only the gland of one side is affected and as the inflammation subsides, the other gland begins to swell.

If you have ever seen a case of mumps you will have no difficulty in recognizing it thereafter. Many pictures are drawn showing the amusing appearance of the victim, but to have the mumps is no laughing matter.

As a result of the inflammation, chewing, talking and swallowing become uncomfortable and extremely painful. The victim refuses his food.

A group of Circleville's progressive merchants have joined together to do honor to the fortunate boy or girl who is the first to be born in December in Circleville. Under the plan adopted these merchants will extend their congratulations in the substantial form of gifts to the First Baby of December and its parents. The gifts will be given to the first boy or girl to be born after midnight November 30th, 1934, this baby to be declared December's First Baby.

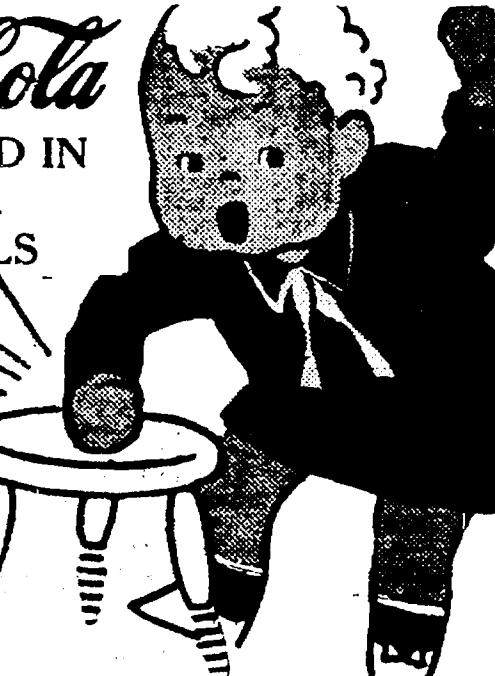

To qualify a baby its birth should be reported immediately to The Herald by telephone or in person, giving the name and address of the parents, with the exact hour and minute of birth and the name of the attending physician. Parents of the First Born must reside in the corporation limits of Circleville.

As soon as possible the parents of the first born will call at this office and receive from the Baby of The Month Editor a certificate which will entitle them to the gifts and prizes the cooperating merchants are giving away.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

WE'LL PICK FIVE

This is the season for selecting all-American football teams; No, we aren't going to name one because we don't know 3 things about all-star teams, but we are going to name five men and we'll lay a dime on the line that at least four of them are on the Collier's all-American, recognized by football men as the official—Two of them are ends; Moscrip of Stanford and Larson of Minnesota—The other three are backs; Lund of Minnesota, Howell of Alabama and Grayson of Stanford ***

BEARCATS TITLISTS

A splendid Ohio Wesleyan football season was marked only by a defeat at the hands of the virtual champion, Cincinnati. The Bearcats tied by Ohio University turned back Miami, 21-0, Turkey day to gain the undisputed title of the Buckeye loop. Had Miami been able to win the Wesleyan team and the Oxford outfit would have been tied for the title ***

PRO GAME THRILLER

A thriller was the professional football game Thursday between Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions. The Bears won it 19-16 thereby clinching the title of the western division of the league and gaining the right to play the New York Giants for the national championship. Detroit led 16-7 at the half but couldn't cope with a strong defense and Jack Manders' toe in the second half—Manders booted two field goals one from the 42 stripe while Presnell for Detroit booted one from the 44—Don Wilson and Graham McNamee broadcasted it became plenty exciting at times and Wilson who has reported many games this year said the fray was the feature of them all ***

Some high scores—
Lopez, 49; Nelsonson, 6.
Alliance, 27; Salem, 21.
Fosteria, 14; Findlay, 6.
Middleport, 12; Pomeroy, 10.
New Philadelphia, 49; Dover, 0.
Sandusky, 13; Fremont, 9.
Warren, 20; Niles, 0.
Wellsville, 18; East Liverpool, 6.

LORD JIM SELLS FOR $8,100 SUM

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30—Lord Jim, famous three-year-old trotter and winner of the Hambletonian this year, today had left the stables of E. L. Mefford, Columbus sportsman, to go into stud duty at the Walnut Hills farms of Donerail, Ky.
Lord Jim, familiar to trotting race fans throughout Ohio, yesterday brought the highest price of any horse at the Old Glory auction in New York. Dr. Ogden M. Edwards, owner of the farms, bid him in for $8,100.
The bid, although not as high as expected, represented an increase of $7,525 in the value of the horse since his purchase by Mefford two years ago as a yearling for $575.
The Old Glory sale closed shortly after Lord Jim left the block.

WRITER PICKS 3 STATE MEN

Wendt, Monahan and Heekin on Fischer's Big Ten Team; Minnesota Dominates.

By LEO FISCHER,
International News Service Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—Picking an all-star football team from the Big Ten for the recent season isn't so tough—so long as you stay away from the backfield. The minute you get behind the line of scrimmage, though, your troubles begin, for it has been many years since the conference boasted of as much talent among the ball carriers as it displayed this year.
Every team had a backfield ace of one kind or another and most of the squads had men who stood out so prominently that they rated all-American consideration. As a result, this author finds himself with an almost irreducible minimum of four halfbacks, none of whom could be left off any all-conference team by any stretch of imagination.

SELECTIONS THREE
So what? So we put all four of them on. It's something new in all-star picking, but when you run into a quartet like Duane Purvis, Jay Berwanger, Dick Heekin and Pug Lund, whom would you pass up? As a matter of fact, it was only by exercising great self-restraint that we also didn't include Les Lindberg and Jim Carter, because the margin which separates them from the others is almost infinitesimal.

Minnesota, Illinois, Ohio State, Chicago, Purdue and Iowa are represented on the first team, with the Gophers of course topping the others in point of numbers as they did in percentage.

The first team:
Ends, Larson of Minnesota and Wendt of Ohio; tackles, Galbreath of Illinois and Bengston of Minnesota; guards, Monahan of Ohio and Bevan of Minnesota; center, Patterson of Chicago; quarterback, Benyon of Illinois; left half, Lund of Minnesota; right half, Heekin of Ohio; Berwanger of Chicago and Purvis of Purdue; fullback, Crayne of Iowa.

The second team:
Ends, Ward of Michigan and Tenner of Minnesota; tackles, Hamrick of Ohio and Widseth of Minnesota; guards, Kummer of Wisconsin and Kaval of Northwestern; center, Lind of Northwestern; quarterback, Seidel of Minnesota; halfbacks, Carter of Purdue and Lindberg of Illinois; fullback, Kostka of Minnesota.

ALABAMA SEEN AS ROSE BOWL CHOICE

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 30—Although no official announcement has been made, it was confidently predicted on the campus here today that Stanford has sent the Rose Bowl invitation to Alabama.

Graduate Manager Al Masters left last night for Pasadena to make final arrangements for the New Year's day football classic. It was understood here Masters will announce Stanford's opponent probably today in Pasadena.

Coach "Tiny" Thornhill declared he did not know which eastern team was being invited.

Honored By Bishop Players

HARLAN MILLS—CAPTAIN #4 JOHN TURLEY—MOST VALUABLE

These two Ohio Wesleyan grid-iron players have been honored by their teammates, following the close of the Bishops' most successful season in years.
Harlan "Buck" Mills, Warren, was chosen honorary captain for the 1934 season, and John Turley, Delaware, was voted most valuable player. Both are seniors.

TIGERS TAKE PRACTICE TILT

Win Handily From Washington-Twp., 45-5; Ashville Team Is Victorious.

Circleville high school's cage team clinched merrily Wednesday afternoon in a practice game with Washington-Twp. on the local court. The score of the game was 45 to 5.

Couch Pete Herberholz used a number of athletes in his lineup. The starting team was Tom Kirwin and Don Henry at forwards, Chuck Styers at center and George Speakman and John Jenkins at guards.

Ashville boys continued their early season drive by defeating Scioto-Twp. at Ashville Wednesday evening by a 52-19 score. The Kauber-men took an early lead and added to it at will.

The Ashville girls won 19-14 stepping into the lead in the final period after trailing through three periods but the Scioto second team of boys won from the Harrison-Twp. 16-9.

The official originally booked did not arrive so Wilbur Griffith Walnut coach worked the girls' game and handled the boys' fray in nice style with the assistance of Ellsworth Trego, Commercial Point youth and Capital university athlete.

NEGRO HOSPITAL SEEN IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30—Rev. Amos H. Carnegie of New York who is the founder of the Negro Hospital Fund is in this city as a part of a survey of hospitalization, medical education and nurse training problems of the negro race.
His program calls for construction of a hospital for negroes in this city.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30—Frank M. McCartney, a Columbus attorney, was charged today with discharging firearms within the city limits. A neighbor filed the charge.

GIANTS AND BEARS TO VIE FOR TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—For the second successive year, the New York Giants are the champions of the eastern section of the National Professional football league.

They earned the right to meet the Bears in the grand finale for league title here a week from Sunday by trouncing the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets field yesterday, 27 to 0.

The Giants buried the Dodgers under a wild assortment of passes, with Ed Danowski, Mickey Moise Smith and Jack McBride on the heaving end, the Giants completed ten out of thirteen tosses.
While the Giants were winning in the east, the Bears were taming the Detroit Lions in Detroit, 19 to 16, to retain their hold on the western title.

In the other holiday game the Chicago Cardinals won over the Green Bay Packers, 6 to 0.

HUGE INCREASE IN CAR REGISTRATION

Ohio motor vehicle registration and revenue to date for the present year has surpassed 1933 figures for the entire year. Over two millions more in revenue have been taken in during the present year.

Registrations in 1934 number 1,687,305, while the total cars registered last year were 1,625,587, showing an increase of 61,718 or 3.8 per cent for the present year. Money taken in from various motor vehicle registrations so far totals $19,739,875.11 compared with gross revenue for 1933 totaling $17,677,551.48.

Highway officials attribute the major portion of this 11.7 per cent or $2,062,323.63 in revenue to activity of the State Highway Patrol in checking commercial vehicles for over-weight violations. Commercial car fees are graduated according to the weight of the truck. More registered chauffeurs are shown for the present year than last. This is the first year since 1929 that registrations have increased.

tising copy and running a loan shop. He contends that private enterprise, given a gentle push, can bring a building boom by itself. Ickes, on the other hand, conceives the New Deal as a means of doing for housing and slum clearance what business so far has failed to do, what realtors—with large investments of their own at stake—never can do.

And up to the present, Ickes has had the private support of the President.

Merry-Go-Round

The November 6 balloting that gave the Democratic party such thumping victory was far from a majority vote of the Nation's electorate. On the basis of 1930 census figures, there are now approximately 69,500,000 persons entitled to vote in the United States. Last election day only about 28,500,000, or 41 per cent, went to the polls. This number was some 11,000,000 ballots less than were cast in the 1932 Presidential election.

The zealous salesmanship methods of one of the big telegraph companies are entirely lost on Harry Hopkins. The other night, after retiring, Hopkins was suddenly awakened by a telephone call. It was a telegraph clerk asking if he wanted to send an answer to a wire he had received that day from Wyoming. . . . The FERA is tackling a job which has baffled local authorities for a half century. As an employment creating project the agency has undertaken to put out a fire which has been burning underground in coal mines, near New Stratistville, Ohio, for 59 years.

FIVE IDENTIFIED IN MYSTERY DEATHS; REMAINS MYSTERY

FATHER, NIECE, CHILDREN DIE

Left California Hurriedly, Investigation Shows; Many Questions Unanswered.

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 30.—The mystery surrounding the deaths and identities of three young girls, "babes in the woods," found in a thicket atop South mountain here and a man and a woman, slain in a suicide pact near Altoona, Pa., was definitely solved today.

The missing key to the puzzle, which has baffled Pennsylvania authorities for almost a week, was furnished late last night.

From the west coast came word which established the victims as Elmo J. Noakes of Roseville, Cal., a fruit company employee; his daughters, Norma, 12, Devilla, 10, and Cordelia, 8, and his niece and housekeeper, Winifred Pierce, 19.

So certain are the authorities that these are the victims that it may not be necessary for relatives of Noakes and Miss Pierce to come here to formally identify the bodies.

The identifications were made through pictures of the victims and through the license number of the black coupe in which the five came to Pennsylvania from California.

Major Cecil M. Wilhelm, second in command of the state police, declared the descriptions of the victims and the Noakes family and the Pierce girl were "close enough" to be conclusive.

The direct linking to Noakes of the couple was the move that started the authorities on their way to success. When International News Service provided police with the names and relationships of the women members of the Noakes household Major Wilhelm and his associates became convinced that the trail of mystery had come to an end.

Wilhelm had been convinced for several days that one of the three girls was named Norma. This name appeared on a picture puzzle book belonging to one of the children. Wilhelm also felt certain that the man, found near Altoona, was the father of the girls because of the facial resemblance.

A few questions still remain to be answered, however before the authorities will be able to complete their picture of the case.

They are:

Why did Noakes and his niece and the children leave their California homes on a moment's notice?

Why were two death sites selected?

Why, if lack of money was responsible for the murder of the children, did Noakes fail to collect two weeks pay which was due him before his departure from his home?

Information from the Pacific coast indicated that some unknown difficulty surrounding Noakes' supposed romance with his niece may have led to the sudden departure, but local authorities placed little credence in this.

U. S. AGENT TO AID PORK PRODUCERS

As previously announced where a farmer (producer or feeder) sells to or exchanges with a general store, grocery, meat shop, restaurant, hotel, or similar establishment, pork products derived from slaughtering his own hogs, the establishment purchasing the pork products is held liable for the tax, and should file return on P. T. Form 4.

So that the owner of an establishment can receive assistance in the preparation of the return, Harry F. Busey, Collector of Internal Revenue, Columbus, Ohio, announces that Deputy Collector H. L. Benton will be at the following places on the dates as listed:

Kingston, post office, Dec. 5.
Canal Winchester, post office, Dec. 6.
Groveport, post office, Dec. 7.
Chillicothe, post office, Dec. 10, 11 and 12.
Circleville, court house, Dec. 13, and 14.

The services of the deputy collector will also be available to farmers who have old hog products direct to the consumer, and who should file return on P. T. Form 4X.

Those liable to file return either form, should forward it with remittance in sufficient time to be in the hands of the Collector or one of his deputies on or before the last day of the month following the month for which it is made. Therefore, for November processing, December 31, 1934 is the final date for filing.
